

THOUSANDS DIE IN A BIG MINE

Russians Blow Up a Fortress, and the Japanese Troops Suffer Heavy Losses.

TWELVE MILES FROM THE FORTS

Even St. Petersburg Has Received Bad News from the Front--Much Feeling Is Shown by the Russian People.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) London, July 13.—A Tien Tsin correspondent of the Evening Star reports a thousand Japanese were killed in an unsuccessful attack on Port Arthur on the land side.

St. Petersburg, July 13.—The Gazette today reports the Japanese patrols have reached a point twelve miles from Liao Yang.

Capture City. Shan Hai Kwan, July 13.—The Japanese, it is believed here, have taken Yinkow, the port of New Chwang, and the Russians with the exception of a strong rear guard at Ta Schi Kiao, which is intended simply to hamper the Japanese advance and not to engage in a serious battle, have been withdrawn to Hai Cheng.

According to the reports reaching here the Japanese did not succeed in taking Yinkow without a hard fight. The Russians were strongly entrenched, and had 10,000 men to man the defenses. The earlier attacks of the Japanese, it is said, were repulsed with heavy loss.

Constant reinforcements came up from the Kai Ping road along the coast and a squadron of light draft Japanese gunboats and cruisers aided in shelling the Russian defenses.

The combined attack was not to be resisted and the Russians withdrew to the northeast with the intention of joining Kuropatkin's main army at Hai Cheng. A great quantity of stores and ammunition, which could not be sent back on time, was destroyed.

It is reported here that the forces of Kuroki and Keller are in touch with each other to the north of Liao Yang, and desperate fighting is expected there at any time. The very pick of the Russian Manchurian army is with Gen. Keller. His entire force is composed of Europeans, and numbers now fully 50,000 men. Kuroki's force also are composed of picked troops, many of them veterans of the Chinese war.

Keller has assumed a defensive attitude, and Kuroki is believed to be awaiting the developments of the campaign further south before he makes a forward move.

Later News. London, July 13.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg states the rumor is circulated there to the effect the Japanese, after the repulse Monday night, attacked the Port Arthur positions and succeeded in taking them.

Slaughter by Mines Is Heavy. St. Petersburg, July 13.—"According to advices received here the Japanese Monday night attacked positions near Port Arthur and were repulsed with heavy losses. Not less than 2,800 Japanese were killed or wounded by our mines."

The above dispatch was received here from a Russian correspondent at Mukden, where are temporarily situated the headquarters of the Russian Manchurian army.

Since the arrival of this dispatch other rumors of a great Russian victory outside Port Arthur have been received by the general staff. Although none of the accounts of the battle so far received in St. Petersburg is of an official nature, the Muk-

ANOTHER BOODLER PLEADED GUILTY

St. Louis Legislators Are Rapidly Coming to the Front and Taking Their Medicine.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) St. Louis, July 13.—John H. Schnettler, another of the municipal legislators who was convicted of bribery and released on a technicality, entered a plea of guilty before Judge McDonald this morning. His sentence was deferred.

AWFUL HAVOC OF TERRIBLE STORM

Philippine Town Is Completely Wiped Out--Manila May Be Affected.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) Manila, July 13.—Two hundred lives were lost and two million dollars worth of property destroyed by a cloudburst at San Juan del Monte. The cloudburst came after twenty hours of rain which amounted to seven inches. Boats are the only means to communicate with all the low-lying lands which are flooded. The people are seeking refuge in the hills. San Juan del Monte, a suburb of Manila five miles northeast, has the principal reservoirs of the city water supply located there. A cloudburst may result seriously to this city by corrupting the water supply.

Alexander McDonald of Cincinnati as administrator of the estate of his deceased wife, Laura McDonald, has filed a bond for $1,500,000 in the surrogate's office, New York. He also qualified as guardian of his two grandchildren by filing a bond for $750,000 for each.

den correspondent's dispatch has been received with general credence and has resulted in an outburst of popular enthusiasm which has had no precedent since the beginning of hostilities. Some official verification of the victory is awaited with the most intense eagerness.

Network of Mines. The loss of so large a number of men is reported to have been largely due to the havoc wrought by the Russian mines and accepted here as one more proof of the impregnability of the fortress, which it is General Stoessel's avowed determination to defend to the death. It is known to the general staff that the entire country within a radius of miles of Port Arthur is a veritable network of mines of the most deadly construction. The most recent dispatches from Chofoo and Tokio established the fact that General Nodkin, the Japanese commander of the army besieging the fortress, had pushed his advance to within a few miles of the city, into the very heart of the mined district.

Japanese Make Advance. Monday's dispatches from Chofoo, a news center which has sent out with a few exceptions information of the greatest accuracy, declared that the Japanese had captured the positions at Culing Tao, the key to the defenses of Port Arthur, and that the advance guard of the attacking army was within two miles of the city.

Immediately after the capture of the Culing Tao positions, the dispatch said, the Japanese commenced a general advance upon the inner fortifications of the fortress, and terrific fighting was in progress along the entire range of hills between Culing Tao and the city.

Fighting Has Been Terrific. Since July 1, according to official and press dispatches, the fighting to the eastward of Port Arthur has been terrific and continuous. The Japanese warships along the shore have maintained a steady shell fire upon the Russian position among the hills, designed with the evident intention of harassing Gen. Stoessel's forces in order to facilitate the advance of the besieging army.

Some of the attacks launched by the Japanese against Gen. Stoessel's outlying positions have been almost fanatical. Nodkin has seemed willing to sacrifice the lives of his men to almost any extent in order to get within actual striking distance of the fortress.

The Man to Watch. Do you know a man against whom you have most reason to guard yourself? Your looking-glass will give you a very fair likeness of his face--Whateley.

SCHAFER INQUIRY BIDS FAIR TO CLEAR MYSTERY

Bedford Grand Jury and Prosecutor Believe They Are on the Trail of the Guilty Man.

Bedford, Ind., July 13.—The family of Miss Georgia Duncan, who recently ran away from home with the help of John Brumby of Cincinnati, is flourishing prominently in the investigation of the grand jury in the Schaffer case. Miss Georgia Duncan, who was a maid in the Duncan household previous to the murder, was on the stand Tuesday. She was in the jury room two hours and when she came out was much agitated. What the testimony was, however, could not be ascertained.

Monday night Dr. J. P. Duncan was before the jury. Prosecutor Stephenson said that he was surprised at what Dr. Duncan had said. The town is stirred over the connection of the Duncans with the investigation and believes that the resemblance of Miss Duncan and Miss Schaffer may be at the bottom of the mystery. The grand jury has struck unflinchingly new lead and Prosecutor Stephenson said: "I believe that a statement just made to me is of greater value in the case than all of the previous investigations."

MEDICAL MEN ARE IN A BIG RUMPUS

Madison Health Department Is Severely Shaken Up--Health Officer Resigns.

Madison, Wis., July 13.—Dr. J. C. Sommer, health officer of Madison, and Mrs. Mary O. Stumpf, matron of the city's contagious hospital, have been removed from office by the board of health. Their resignations are alleged to have been demanded by the board after an investigation of charges preferred by the retiring matron. Dr. Joseph P. Donovan has been appointed health officer to fill the vacancy. Strenuous efforts were made by the persons directly interested to suppress the fact of the removals and the reasons therefor.

STATE NOTES

Hugh Corbett of Grand Rapids has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, who will take charge of his stock.

Sixty-five children from the slums of Chicago have arrived at Kewaskum for a two weeks' outing in the homes of the farmers near the city. The Catholic societies of Jefferson county formed a county federation at Watertown on Tuesday, with John J. Brunsbach as president.

The J. I. Case Threshing Machine company of Racine awarded contracts for building a third $200,000 storehouse, 200 feet long and 300 wide.

The annual rally of the Milwaukee district of the Epworth league will be held at the Pleasant Prairie, Kenosha county, M. E. church on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of this week. A northbound freight engine on the North-Western blew out a cylinder head between Racine and Ives Tuesday night and five heavy freight trains were stalled in that city all night.

Women will not be allowed to frequent the back rooms of saloons in Marinette. Mayor Warren J. Davis having taken a decided stand on the matter by revoking one license on Tuesday.

Wisconsin Woman Obtains Divorce on Remarkable Charge.

Racine, Wis., July 13.—Judge Delton of the circuit court has granted a divorce to Mattie J. Spaulding from Dr. J. Spaulding, one of the most prominent physicians in Kenosha. Mrs. Spaulding was married in 1893 and she alleges that within one year after that she began to ill treat her. One charge was that he forced her to cook a cat which he had killed, claiming it was a rabbit. She claimed her husband earned a salary and $350 a month and had personal property amounting to about $12,000. Nothing was known in Kenosha of the divorce action being brought.

To Retain Palma Trophy. Bisleigh, England, July 13.—The National Rifle association council has decided that last year's contest for the Palma trophy should be considered abortive and that the trophy shall be retained by England until another match is arranged.

Summer Hotel Is Burned. Mount Holly, N. J., July 13.—The Berkeley Arms hotel at Berkeley, near Seaside Park, N. J., was destroyed by fire. It was formerly operated by George C. Boldt of New York. The loss is $75,000.

DEAD BODIES IN A JUNK SHOP

START FIRE TO COVER CRIME

Perpetrators of the Deed Seek to Wipe Out Evidence by Destroying the Structure, But the Arrival of Firemen Reveals Their Duplicity.

New York, July 13.—The dead bodies of George F. Abbott, an aged junk dealer, and his handy man, Frederick Van Buskirk, were found in Abbott's junkshop in Chapel alley, Brooklyn, by firemen called to the building to put out a fire supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

The men evidently were murdered and the police have arrested Charles Victor Johnson, 27 years old, and Oscar Dahlgren, 28 years old, both of Brooklyn, on suspicion of having knowledge of the crime. There was a bullet hole in Van Buskirk's head at the left temple and a similar wound in Abbott's skull.

Beaten Over the Head.

Abbott had been beaten on the head with some heavy instrument until his brains protruded. He had been tied hand and foot and around the throat with a rope taken from one of his own junk piles. His body was found lying on the floor of the shop several feet from the narrow entrance, while Van Buskirk's body was discovered in a reclining position in one of the stalls of a stable owned by Abbott and immediately adjoining the shop. Abbott's straw hat had been placed over his face and a half bushel basket had been pushed down over his body. The floor of the junkshop was covered with blood.

In one of Van-Buskirk's hands was a revolver with two empty chambers, which the police believe was placed there by the murderer or murderers.

Charge Crime to Revenge.

The murdered junkdealer was accustomed to carry considerable cash about with him and this fact was well known in the neighborhood. Although the bodies were not discovered until the fire occurred, it is believed from their condition that the men were killed the day before, and a witness has been found who heard the sounds of a quarrel in the junkshop.

The two prisoners were found loitering near the shop when the police arrived to begin their investigation. Dahlgren has admitted that when Johnson got out of jail two weeks ago he threatened to get even with Abbott, who had him sent there on a petit larceny charge.

Pneumonia Germs.

There is at present no hope of procuring anti-pneumonia serum, owing to the low vitality of the pneumococcus in artificial inoculations, says Prof. W. H. Welch of Johns Hopkins. The germ is in a large percentage a nodal occupant of the healthy human throat. Alcoholism and other debilitating conditions lower the power of resistance of the individual and increase the susceptibility to the diseases. There is no conclusive evidence that pneumonia is contagious.

Ferris, the 10 year old son of C. E. Otis, fell from a pier at the new dam at Mondovi on Tuesday and sustained serious injuries.

DISASTER SEEMS TO FOLLOW THEM

Whitty Family of Baraboo Have Accident After Accident--Several Killed.

(Special to The Gazette.) Madison, Wis., July 13.—George Whitty of Baraboo was recently injured by falling off a North-Western train at Oregon, losing one foot and the toes of the other one besides suffering a fracture of the skull. Last night he died from the effects of the injury to his head and his body taken to the morgue. Whitty was a brakeman. A series of similar disasters befall other members of the family. One brother was drowned in Devil's lake two years ago, another died while studying for the priesthood and the father serving as a capitol policeman died suddenly a year ago.

YOUNG WOMAN SHOOTS HER ESCORT AT MARION

Picks Up Revolver From Cigar Case in Restaurant and Youth Falls Dead at Her Feet.

Marion, Ind., July 13.—Miss Alma Vandevener, 20 years of age, shot and killed Leslie Bradford, 19 years of age, in the Bridge restaurant in Jonesboro. When the couple entered the restaurant Miss Vandevener saw a revolver-lying in a cigar case. She picked it up, pointed it at Bradford and declared she would shoot him. The revolver was discharged and Bradford fell dead with a bullet through his head.

Miss Vandevener was arrested and placed in jail in this city to await the verdict of the coroner. She declares the shooting was an accident, and when testifying at the coroner's inquest said she would shoot herself if given a weapon.

Women's Chief Desires.

Women have always aspired to be beautiful and have painted their faces and "tired their heads" since time immemorial and in all countries. The goddess of Japan changes the color of her lips three times in one evening, and no little Japanese lady ever misses an opportunity of whipping out the rouge pot and mirror, which form indispensable parts of her toilet.

STRIKERS ARE GAINING DAILY

Great Meat Strike May Affect Prices The Country Over--Men Are Orderly.

SOME FIRMS IMPORT NEW WORKMEN

The Strike Has Spread From Chicago All Over the United States--Demands of Workmen Will Not Be Granted.

(Special by Scripps-McLae.) Omaha, July 13.—Fifty-five hundred strikers are now out in the packing houses here. The packers declare they will run their plants. It is said they are seeking men in the state. Swift and Cudahy are making preparations to board men at the plants. The general situation is quiet.

At St. Louis. St. Louis, July 13.—Despite the fact forty-five hundred packing house employees are out the Armour, Nelson, Morris, and Swift packing houses at East St. Louis announce today they would fill the places of the strikers and resume operations. Good order prevails.

In New York. New York, July 13.—Thirty-five hundred packing house employees joined the great meat strike this morning. The retail butchers immediately raised the prices one and two cents a pound. A meat famine is predicted should the strike run over two or three days.

All Still Quiet. Kansas City, July 13.—The strike situation is quiet and orderly. No strikers have returned to work. The Armour and Fowler plants are daily working a third of their capacity.

All Quiet. Chicago, July 13.—Comparative quiet prevails in the stockyards district this morning. Knobs of strikers gathered and watched the movements of packers. It is said ninety negroes were smuggled into the yards during the night, and are used to place the beef in the cooling rooms. The Polish strikers upset several wagons going to the yards. Five hundred policemen are guarding the yards.

Will Not Join. The teamsters' unions have decided not to aid the striking meat workers by refusing to handle the packing house products. Three strikers were fined five dollars each for overturning a load of mattresses intended for the stockyards. It is reported 180 colored workmen are on their way from St. Louis and Kansas City to help break the strike. Preparations are being made by the packers to care for the men inside the plants and to resume operations.

At St. Joseph. St. Joseph, Mo., July 13.—Quiet prevails in the packing house district. Swift, Morris and Hammond are operating. All are installing an outfit to board strike breakers.

Chicago Talk. Packers denied the immediate possibility of a meat famine. Until the closing of the week at least 200,000 pounds of meat will be available.

World's National Debt. The national debt of Great Britain began in the reign of William III and in 1713 was only £54,000,000. By 1889 the national debts of the world had run up to the enormous total of six thousand one hundred and sixty millions sterling.

Russian Teacher's Pitiful Pay. The condition of the village schoolmaster in Russia is not to be envied. The case is reported of a master who has been in one school for thirteen years, a married man of thirty-five, with five children. His annual salary is 200 roubles, or about $100.

To Make Glass Opaque. If you want to shut off the view from any window you can do it very cheaply by dissolving in a little hot water as much Epsom salts as the water will absorb. Paint over the window whitewash, and when dry you will have a very good imitation of ground glass.

Judge Was to Blame. There is a story of an English judge, newly appointed, who remonstrated with counsel as to the way he was arguing his case. "My lord," said the advocate in question, "you argued such a case in a similar way when you were at the bar." "Yes, I admit it," quietly replied the judge, "but that was the fault of the judge who allowed it!"

Export Gold in Bars. Exporters of gold always prefer to ship in bars rather than coin, simply because of the greater subjection of coin to abrasion in transit. They can not be packed as closely as bars. It is said that $1,000,000 in American eagles may show as great a loss as $100 from abrasion in being carried from New York to Paris.

Horses Quickly Worn Out. The average life of horses in the British cavalry is just five years, but the army service draught horses last as long as long again.

EDITORS ARE TO ORGANIZE NEXT

Col. John Hicks Issues a Call for the Formation of a State Association.

Col. John Hicks, editor of the Oshkosh Northwestern and a member of the National Republican Editorial association, has issued the following call for a meeting of republican editors of Wisconsin to form an association for the campaign:

As the campaign of 1904, which is now opened, there is work to be done by the republican newspapers of Wisconsin. That work can be done more systematically and successfully if the newspapers are associated together and working in harmony. The officers of the National Republican Editorial association have requested me to issue a call for a meeting of the Wisconsin republican editors to organize a state association, and I therefore request you to meet at Milwaukee on Thursday, July 21, in the clubhouse of the Hotel Paster, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, for that purpose.

All editors and publishers in sympathy with republican principles, as enunciated by the last state convention in Chicago, are invited to be present. A constitution is to be adopted and officers elected for the next two years. It is hoped that every congressional district in the state will be represented. Please see that your county sends its representatives.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, July 13, 1864.—Is There Any Difference?—A gentleman who resides upon a farm a few miles outside of the city, while in our office a day or two since, gave it as his opinion that the chinch bug was much less disastrous to the wheat drilled in than that sown broadcast. His field was entirely ruined, while a neighbor, put in with a drill, and sowed by side with this, was untouched by the destructive insect. If general experience and observation bear out the state of things developed in this case, it would be worth while for the farming community to give this matter their serious consideration.

Reading off the Chinch Bugs.—It is said that the French had six hundred and twenty-five ways of cooking an egg, but we very much doubt whether with all their integrity, they can beat one of our farmers in killing chinch bugs. A farmer out on the Johnson road a couple of miles, whose name we have forgotten, after seeing his crop of small grain pretty thoroughly cleaned out by this annoying bug and finding the varminths making for his twenty acres of fine corn, determined to give the enemy battle. Accordingly he leveled a path around his field with his hoe and thereupon to abandon the corn without further effort, immediately commenced a bank movement. But for this the farmer's strategy was sufficient and he has prepared several pits into which the bugs tumbled by the peck. We haven't visited the farm ourselves, but are told by those who have, that the plan is working admirably, and it is believed by many that a general system of hoeing will go far towards exterminating these pests that are annually costing our farmers hundreds of thousands of dollars. If this plan is not effective, or too expensive, will it not suggest something better?

RECEIVER NAMED FOR TILE COMPANY

Hadden Rodge Company Will Have Some Difficulty Adjusting Their Affairs.

The Hadden-Rodge company passed into the hands of a receiver yesterday and the offices in the chamber of commerce building at Milwaukee are in charge of Dr. Ralph Elmergreen, who was appointed by Judge Scamman to take charge of the company's affairs until a hearing has been had upon a petition by creditors asking that the company be declared bankrupt. It is said that the liabilities are about $165,000, while the assets, if they could be fully realized, would amount to $252,000.

W. A. Hayes and Paul G. Lewis, attorneys for Dr. Elmergreen, will endeavor to straighten out the business conducted through the Milwaukee office and the forty branch offices. Mr. Hayes left for Chicago last night to take charge of the Chicago office. He will visit other branches in the northwest.

Neither Dr. Elmergreen nor E. G. Hadden would make a statement as to the condition of the company yesterday. From other sources it was learned, however, that assets consist largely of claims against private individuals made through stock transactions. One of the largest claims and which family brought about the downfall of the company, is that against the Woodard company of New York, for $10,000.

"Liabilities of the company will not exceed $165,000, while the assets are estimated at $252,000," said Paul G. Lewis, attorney for the receiver. "Efforts will be made at once to collect all assets. It probably will develop, as is the case in stock transactions, that many debtors may be execution proof."

THE NEW 1830 POKE BONNET

With the revival of the quaint and the old-fashioned modes of the early part of last century the fascinating poke bonnet has likewise made its reappearance. The new models of that style, however, are far prettier than those which are supposed to copy. Witness the illustration in which the frame is bent beautifully upward at the left side to disclose the bunch of blue forget-me-nots and bluish pink roses are disposed around the sides and back. Long tie strings in the palest pink ribbon start from the back and are tied in a demure-looking bow beneath the left ear.

Children and Their Clothes.

If you have money, dress your children; but if you do not wish them to be regarded with dislike and contempt, teach them to forget that they are wearing fine clothes. Carefully impress on them that to make comparisons between their own garments and those of children less richly clad is to stamp themselves ill bred. Girls are worse than boys in this respect.

Some Straight Tips.

Some of the straight tips we get in this world couldn't be told from the straightness that is proverbially supposed to belong to a gunstock.

Famous Crown Jewels.

The Saxon crown jewels rank among the finest in Europe, and more especially the pearls. Many of the ancient Polish crown jewels are among the treasures at Dresden, and there is a fine collection of diamonds as well as of emeralds.

A Wonderful Clock.

An Englishman has constructed a clock that will run 30,000 years. That, at least, is the inventor's claim for it, but if he wants to make his promise good his wife should be careful not to let the hired girl have the clock in her room very much.

CENTURIES OLD

The disease which has brought more suffering, degradation and disgrace upon the human race is the same to-day that it was centuries ago. It is called Contagious Blood Poison, "The Bad Disease," and is given other names, but among all nations is regarded as the blackest and vilest of all human diseases. It goes from bad to worse; the little sores that first appear are soon followed by others; the glands of the groins swell and inflame, a red eruption breaks out on the body, the mouth and throat become ulcerated, the hair and eyebrows drop out, and ugly yellow blotches make their appearance, and if the disease is not checked at this stage, every bone, muscle, tissue and nerve in the body becomes infected with the poison, and from the roots of the hair to the soles of the feet there is not a sound spot anywhere. To cure this awful contagion the blood must first be purified, and nothing will do this so quickly and surely as S. S. S., which has been known for years as an antidote for the poisonous virus of Contagious Blood Poison. Mercury and potash may check it for a time, but it comes back in a still more aggravated form. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable, and $1.00 is offered for proof that it contains a mineral ingredient. Write for our home-treatment book, and learn all about Contagious Blood Poison and how to treat it. No charge for medical advice.

I was afflicted with blood poison, and the best doctors did me no good, though I took their treatment faithfully. In fact, I seemed to grow worse all the while. I was disheartened, for it seemed that I would never be cured. At the advice of a friend I then took S. S. S., and began to improve. I continued the medicine, and it cured me completely, building up my health and increasing my appetite. Although this was ten years ago, I have never had a sign of the disease to return. VERDICT OF THE PARTY

From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 22d, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected said John G. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Snodgrass and Emil Baensch as delegates at large, and their alternates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin WAS THE REGULAR CONVENTION OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.
Whatever may be said of Mr. Bryan and however much he may be ridiculed, the fact was apparent at St. Louis that he is a great leader and extremely popular with the masses. The galleries were with him, and if they had been delegated to name a candidate Mr. Bryan would have been in control.

It is interesting to analyze the vote, and note the states that were with him.

His own state was expected to be in line, as well as Kansas and the coast states, and it is not surprising that Iowa was found in the same column.

Wisconsin was on the conservative side, but fooled away her opportunity to name the winning candidate by sticking to Wall after Parker was nominated. Bryan has a following in all of the western and many of the southern states, and his popularity is largely due to the man himself. Had he championed the gold standard as vigorously as he did free silver, the democratic party would never have been divided.

The character of the man never stood out so prominently as when he appeared on the floor of the convention and made his plea for what he believed to be right.

That the man should have such a hold upon the people is significant. It demonstrates very clearly that the danger line to our institutions, lies very close to the surface, and that any man who possesses the tact and ability of Bryan, can develop a following on short notice.

It is well for the nation, as well as for the democratic party, that this dangerous leader has been defeated. The republicans of Wisconsin have a similar task to perform with an erratic governor. La Follette and Bryan are alike in many ways. Put the former in Kansas or Nebraska and populism would not long suffer for a leader. He will never make much impression on the national party, as was evidenced at the Chicago convention, but he is large enough to demoralize a state as conservative as Wisconsin. Bryanism is a thing of the past and La Folletteism will be, after the fourth of November.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

The campaign is on, and the issues clearly defined. The St. Louis platform attempts to explain the necessity for a change of administration, but the most that can be made out of it is, "We are out and want to get in." This is really the only issue and it remains for public sentiment to say whether it contains any thing in the way of merit.

When Cleveland was elected the first time, the issue was expressed in the campaign slogan, "We want a change." We got it, and it took the nation several years to recover. The same dodge will not work the second time.

The republican party stands for the best government that the nation ever enjoyed, and the party was never more thoroughly equipped than today. The prosperity which has blessed the country during the past eight years is largely due to the confidence inspired by wise and wholesome administration.

This era of prosperity has been wide spread, and every individual who possessed ambition, thrift, and economy has shared in its benefits. The individual wealth of the nation has greatly increased and the majority of men appreciate the fact that there is no demand for a change, which at the best can be but a doubtful experiment.

The republican party has a firm hold on the people, and it will not be sacrificed to gratify the whim of democracy. The much discussed tariff is safe in the hands of its friends. When it needs revising it had better be done by the party responsible for it. The public is not suffering for tariff reform, and the democratic party will find that but little interest will be displayed in tariff discussion. Roosevelt will be the next president and under his wise and vigorous direction the nation will continue to prosper.

Some men are happy if they can stir up trouble. Take the renegades from the republican party who are now democrats and who made most of the trouble at St. Louis.

Janesville needs many things with out any alderman becoming an obstructionist. There have been too many obstructionists in this city for its own good for too long.

That book scandal followed by the insurance exposure have not been any more tasteful to the administration than the action of the republican national convention.

Some way or other George W. Peck does not seem to have the entire support of the democratic party in Wisconsin.

Wall street has gone crazy. Parker or Roosevelt, with odds in favor of Roosevelt. A new gamble is on.

There seems to be no let-up in the manner in which men can be separated from their money and senses.

Bryan even went back on Willie Hearst after Willie spent thousands on his friend Bryan four years ago.

The Chronicle has the respect of every newspaper the country over for being open in its convictions.

There is enough finance in the proposition of bonding the city to satisfy the local statesmen.

Hearst and his yellow papers failed to stampede the democratic convention with fake telegrams.

Those favorite sons who got the itching at the St. Louis convention are now all over it.

Every democrat who has come back from the convention say it was a warm one.

Another industry seeks Janesville as a good location. Good for Janesville.

PRESS COMMENT

El Paso (Texas) Herald: Mr. Roosevelt will have to send Funston after Gov. La Follette.

Madison Democrat: General Miles may not be a gay deceiver, but he's a scandalous old flirt.

Appleton Crescent: A little suggestion to the city band—to be taken pleasantly—don't play funeral dirges at a concert in the park.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: The miners of West Virginia in the employ of the Davis corporations will rise up as one man—and cast their ballots for the other fellow.

Philadelphia North American: The czar assures the Finns that their "historic destinies are indissolubly bound up with those of Russia," which sounds much better than it is.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: It was an ignoble six hundred that dared not carry the fight for a gold plank. If it favored one, to the convention floor.

Milwaukee Sentinel: When it came to the point of "dying for principle," W. J. Bryan concluded that Mayor Rose was right when he said it was "all d—d rot."

Madison Journal: Because a man is in business is no good reason why he should be expected to contribute his hard-earned shillings for the amusement of those who are merely out for fun.

New York Telegram: Custodian of Unfathomable Things will please take charge of "Who Cut Santos-Dumont's Balloon?" wrap it up and put it on the top shelf between "Who Sowed Courtney's Boat?" and "Who Struck Billy Patterson?"

Louisville Courier-Journal: A dispatch from Tien-Tsin states that a pint of Russian beer costs 2 rubles and about a dollar—but nothing is said about an egg or a sausage going with it. Dispatches from the seat of war, or even from that vicinity, are very unsatisfactory.

Milwaukee News: There's some consolation for Governor La Follette at St. Louis. The democratic national convention was "fair minded" enough to approve the methods by which he obtained control of the gymnasium convention.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Evidently Dave Hill knew what he was doing when he submitted to the plan of leaving out all reference to the financial issue in the democratic platform, but he permitted his man to speak up just a little bit too soon.

Chicago Inter Ocean: When notified of the action of the St. Louis convention by telephone President Roosevelt quietly said, "Thank you," and hung up the receiver. Dispatch from Oyster Bay. Well, what of that? Was he expected to shoot at the receiver?

Exchange: The vineyards of Central Asia are all from American stock. Ohio has a large and regular export trade in cuttings with all the wine-growing countries, owing largely to the fact that American vine is free from many common parasites, notably phylloxera.

Racine News: That old favorite of the children, Mrs. Tom Thumb that was, and Countess Magri, that is, has just come over from Holland. She is still in the show world and brought with her sixty-four dwarfs from Budapest, where there is a colony of midgets.

Exchange: Of the money earned by American railroads last year, $1,684,417,408 was divided among stockholders and bondholders, and the remainder, $2,625,680,112, went to the 1,789,315 employees. The owners of railroads are far more numerous than the workers on railroads.

Wausau Central Wisconsin: The only reply that La Follette will make when approached upon the subject of holding a third term is that his work is not finished. For the good of the community it is to be hoped that it never will be finished, as it is not of that degree of perfection that will ever be of any benefit to the public.

Evening Wisconsin: M. Santos-Dumont is going away back to Paris to have a hole in the gas-bag of his flying machine repaired. This isn't an insult to American genius for repair work, but simply another exhibition of eccentricity on the part of the French aeronaut, who knows how to advertise himself by doing strange things.

Hudson Star-Times: Bryan recently advised La Follette that he must either give up the fight or leave the republican party. In the light of the St. Louis convention it would be interesting to know La Follette's advice to Bryan. The Milwaukee Sentinel suggests that both might join the Salvation army. If they did, both would be dictating terms to old General Booth before dark.

Seranton Tribune: The philosophy of the Parker movement was well expressed by Mr. Littleton when he said: "It is better to give up some untimely doctrine, and occasionally succeed, than to hold them all faithfully and always fail. Winning is not wicked; strategy is not a sin." But how about when you compromise, patter with principle and lose, too? That will be democracy's experience this year.

Are You Going to Paint? READ THESE FACTS

THE COST for material to paint one hundred square feet of surface with lead and oil is 71c; if using Heath & Milligan Paint it is 50c.

THE WEAR.—Look at your own or your neighbor's house painted last year with lead and oil. Note its faded, dull and chalky appearance. Then look at the following houses in Janesville painted with Heath & Milligan Paints: Tona Baker, J. Conley, T. Kelley, Chas. Homan, J. McCue, John Miller, M. J. Walker, H. J. Smith, C. Jackman, and others.

COVERING—CAPACITY.—One gallon of Heath & Milligan Paint will cover more surface than one and one-half gallons of lead and oil, for this reason, it is recognized by machinery into a very fine, thoroughly mixed paint.

THE PAINTER does not recommend mixed paint because he can make more money on lead and oil (mixed with benzine and white lead).

HONEST MEN and experienced painters are—

A. M. SMITH, who says, "I have used Heath & Milligan Paint for 20 years; there is no better."

R. A. CARR, who says, "for fifteen years Heath & Milligan Paint has been my favorite. Ask C. C. Carr or W. Hemming. They will do you a good job and use Heath & Milligan Paint."

HUTCHINSON & SONS, the oldest paint house in Janesville, cranks on lead and oil, when asked by C. Jackman which mixed paint they would recommend said Heath & Milligan, and they did use it, after Mr. Jackman refused to have any more painter's dope smeared onto his house.

HONEST FACTS all of them. We want to sell you honest paint, be honest with you. Pocket book Use Good Paint.

The Eye is a delicate sensitive organ and should have careful attention when glasses are fitted. It helps so sensitive a little defect causes trouble. Astigmatism is the most common trouble and is caused by an imperfect shape of the eyeball or cornea, and sometimes the natural lens. This causes a strain on the eyes to overcome the error of refraction, which results in headache, stomach trouble, etc. The fact that your sight is good is no proof that you have no error of refraction, for it is possible to relieve it through the muscles of the eye while they stand the strain. Had a stranger ventured by chance beyond the portals of the Country Club's pavilion last evening and listened for a moment to the conversation that occupied a hundred or more members, the things heard would have baffled his understanding. "Why this animated discussion over the merits of Bilbo the snake-eater, Holobink the two-faced man, and Lorette, the flying lady? What had such topics as moving picture shows, plantation minstrelsy, Moorish mazes, the streets of Cairo, the panorama of the destruction of the Russian battleship Rostislav, the performing mule, Beelzebub and Anne Spratt's troupe of performing kittens to do with the ancient game?" would have constituted some of the questions that would immediately occurred to him. Still more astounding would have been the announcement, received with great enthusiasm, that the guardian of the petrified man from La Prairie would positively exhibit his find and that Madame LeMarr had finally consented to make the high dive from the dizzy heights of the windmill tower. Overmastered by his curiosity we may conceive our stranger to have made some inquiry as to the meaning of all this talk about monkey shows and amusements of antiquity, mentioned in indefinable connection with such phrases as "The Pike," "The Highway" and "Levity Lane." Then in pitying tones—for ignorance, can hardly be forgiven at this time—he would have been informed of the great tented collection of the world's marvels which is in preparation for the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, July 26.

was of the opinion that sufficient canvas shelter for all of the curiosities would be offered voluntarily. Arrangements had been made with the street car company to run until midnight in order to accommodate the crowds. The exhibition is to be a public affair and an admission of ten cents will be charged to all at the gates of the golf links. The pennant concession was placed in the hands of Mrs. J. P. Baker and Mrs. Carter was granted permission to establish on the grounds a restaurant to be known as "The Vienna Cafe."

Invite Neighboring Clubs
Special invitations to attend the "big show" will be sent to the golf clubs of Rockford, Madison, and other neighboring cities. No effort will be spared to make this "congress of all nations" feature one of the most entertaining and instructive ever seen outside of the great expositions. Arab and Moor with their trusty "ships of the desert," Japanese with their rickshaws, natives of Java with their palanquins, and warriors from the Bavarian Tyrol, inhabitants of all lands and climes will lead their presence to this cosmopolitan gathering.

HERMAN YEAGER NOW AT OCONOMOWOC

Installation Ceremonies Were Held in That City Sunday Afternoon.

Herman Yeager, formerly teacher in the St. Paul's German Lutheran school of this city, was formally installed teacher of the German Lutheran school of Oconomowoc last Sunday. He was also appointed leader of the church choir and organist of that city. Mr. Yeager, the former teacher, has accepted an excellent position in the German Lutheran schools of California. His many friends in this city extend to him the best wishes for success in his new field of labor. Richard Benewitz and Gus Schmitt of this city attended the installation.

LIBRARY CLOSED UNTIL SEPTEMBER

Will Be Open Day Times and Evenings of Wednesday and Saturday Each Week.

To the Editor:
Will you kindly inform the public why the city library has been closed evenings, and why the public has not been notified that it would be closed? When is it open and is it open evenings at all? A SUBSCRIBER.
On inquiry a member of the library board is authority for the following answer to the above query: The library is closed each summer evening during the months of July and August, except Wednesday and Saturday nights. The library is open from one o'clock until six each day. Through a mistake no official notice of the closing was made, although the board ordered it.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES

Reduced rates of this excursion will be in effect from all points in Wisconsin to Chicago. All inquiries relative to transportation are referred to J. L. Janesville; J. M. Whitley, chief traveling officer, De Pere, and F. A. Bird, assistant quartermaster general, Madison.

SEEKING RELEASE OF ROY MARSDEN

Mother Has Been at Work Unceas-ingly for Him Since He Was Sentenced Two Years Ago.

The mother of Roy Marsden who has served two years and eight months of his five years' sentence in the Green Bay reformatory for a theft committed in 1901 is circulating a petition to the governor of the state to have him paroled or released. The boy was convicted on Sept. 15 of that year of breaking into the Eldred store at 25 West Milwaukee street and two days later was sent to the industrial school for boys at Waubesa. He escaped and on Oct. 13 of the same year he was convicted of breaking into W. J. Skelly's store at No. 57 West Milwaukee street. He was sent to Waupun but later transferred to the reformatory at Green Bay. The boy seems to have mended his ways since his confinement. He has shown aptitude as a scholar and is now teaching a class of forty in mathematics. Judge Fife and Attorney Jackson are among the signers. Willie Marsden who was sent to the Waubesa reformatory for stealing brass from one of the railroad section houses was released about the first of May and has returned to Janesville. The boy pleaded guilty to the charge but later denied his guilt. He had no attorney in the trial and the evidence against him was not strong. A plea made before the governor was responsible for his release.

ATKINSON TRIAL IN COURT TODAY

Prosecution Had a Surprise in Store for Defense—Case on Trial
as We Go to Press.

The trial of John Atkinson charged with attempting to hold up Percy Burke near the Grand hotel one evening last month was commenced before a jury in municipal court this morning. The prosecution sprung a surprise by introducing as a witness a person who occupied a room in the hotel overlooking the place where the encounter is alleged to have taken place. District Attorney Jackson represented the state and Attorney J. J. Cunningham and W. G. Wheeler, the defense.

Lawn Social Last Evening: Last evening the members of St. Patrick's Court, Women Catholic Order of Foresters, and their friends enjoyed a lawn social on the spacious lawn of Rev. E. M. McGinnity. The evening was spent in eating ice cream and cake and a most enjoyable time was had by the large number of people who were in attendance.

ROCKFORD WILL SEND DELEGATION

Country Club Hopes To Have a Big Delegation Here on Friday
Next.

Are you going to Janesville Friday, says the Rockford Star. That question is propounded by one golfer to another and the occasion for it is the Janesville club wants every member of the Country Club to visit the Bower city. The invitation is as broad as it is generous. "We want you to bring every member of your club, the good player and the poor player and those who do not play at all," writes the secretary of the Janesville club. Further he says: "We will put our good players against your good ones, our poorest against your poorest, and we don't care, continental who wins so long as we all have a good time."
President Keeler emphasizes this: "Urge the entire club to go, fine players, duffers, the old and young and particularly the ladies," says the president.
The main push will leave here on the 8 o'clock car and others will leave at 10 o'clock. There will be a sumptuous dinner, games in the afternoon and a dance at night.
This should be an inducement for every member of the club. There will be no particular teams as every player will be part of a team. All ladies who play the game are requested to make the trip as the Janesville ladies declare they are anxious to meet at least twenty-five Rockford ladies on the links. The ladies who do not play will be excellently entertained.
The entire Rockford club is invited and he or she who remains behind will miss a big old time. Janesville brought 150 here on the occasion of their last visit, and President Keeler wants at least 150 to go from Rockford.

A HOT GAME TOMORROW

Chicago Union Giants vs. Clinton Maroons Play at Athletic Park.

BERRY SEASON IS UNUSUALLY LONG

Cold Weather and Continued Showers
the Cause—Raspberries Coming In.

The strawberry season is nearing an end. Growers attribute the cause for the extended season to cool weather and continued showers which have produced an almost even temperature for the past few weeks. The weather has been ideal for the berries.
"The strawberry crop is nothing out of the ordinary," said a wholesale fruit commission merchant yesterday. "The cold weather of spring was not the cause of the long berry season. The crop was just as it should have been in an ordinary year."
"Cold and wet, berries yet" is the slogan of the truck drivers, who bring their wares daily into the city. They had a busy season of it. Some of them have such an enormous crop that they will not be able to pick all berries.
Raspberries are now being received by local commission houses but the quality is not of the best. The home grown stock is now coming in. This berry was delayed in maturing but it is now well under way. However there is a good prospect of a heavy crop and a long season.
Currants will perhaps not be as heavy as usual but there will be a fair crop. Nice red cherries are being brought to the city and sold by farmers at 15 cents a box.

JAMES SHERIDAN AND SONS WITNESSED THE WALK-OUT

Of Strikers Who Have Been Employed in the Stockyards at Chicago.
James Sheridan and sons were in Chicago Monday and were at the stockyards when thousands of men deserted their posts in obedience to the officials who had ordered a strike. No violence of any kind was committed. The strike, unless it is speedily ended, will probably affect the price of meat.

NEW BASEBALL PARK IS TO BE OPENED SUNDAY

Clinton Maroons Will Play for First Time on Grounds North of City.
Herman Kath's new baseball park between Crystal Springs and the Burr property, located three miles north of Janesville, will be opened to the public on the coming Sunday. A large force of men have been engaged for the past fortnight in removing the trees and stumps, building the bleachers and fence, and getting the grounds into shape. The Maroons expect to play a team from Madison. Both teams will run to the park.

A. R. Walto, of Deloit, spent Monday in the village.

O. D. Antseld is visiting his brother at Baker City, Oregon.

Miss Mae Humphrey spent Sunday at home.

J. W. Seales moved his family from Deloit here last week.

E. F. Luckfield is taking his vacation. Operator Allen, from Roseau, is relieving him.

Mrs. Aniel Paulitz and son of Janesville, have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Stark, for the past week.

Mr. F. D. Rugg, supreme vice president and general field manager, accompanied by Dr. Boyle Vance, supreme medical examiner of the Loyal American, of Springfield, Ill., are completing the organization of the Loyal American, which will be instituted Thursday evening at the Woodman hall, with a large list of charter members.

A few from here attended the picnic at Footville Friday.

Miss Francis Brinkman attended church in Janesville Sunday.

Mrs. J. B. Humphrey and daughter, Mae, went to Delavan Lake Monday.

Miss Sadie Drafahl went to Calville Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCrea, of Needles, California, are visiting his mother, Mrs. Nellie McCrea.

ORFORDVILLE.

Orfordville, July 12.—Station Agent Mowse sold 100 tickets to Janesville July 4th.

Master Jim Hopkins, of Brodhead, came last week for a few days' visit with his aunt, Mrs. Tom Corbett.

On Saturday of last week Pearl Laiten returned to Waukesha after spending a few days at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Norton, of Rockford, spent the Fourth with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Helmolt.

Mr. H. C. Taylor, went to Des Moines, Iowa, on Monday.

Miss Chessie Smiley went to Whitewater on Saturday to attend the normal summer school.

Mr. Robert Keenan is enjoying a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Keenan, of Elizabeth, Ill.

Mrs. Edith Williams, of Waukesha, returned home on Saturday of last week after visiting a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Greenwalt.

Messrs. H. K. Hendrickson, Christ Ness, L. E. Lund and T. Gunderson spent the Fourth in New Glarus.

Mr. Budd Kelley, who has been working in the machine shops in Deloit, has been quite sick with the grip and came home last week to recuperate.

Miss Amy Ross, of Janesville, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Hattie Cystegard.

There will be a social at the basement of the M. E. church and on the church lawn on Friday evening, July 15.

BARNYARD MANURE.

A Tremendous Annual Waste—Leguminous Crops and Stock Feeding.

A well kept manure heap may be safely taken as one of the surest indications of thrift and success in farming. Neglect of this resource causes losses, which, though little appreciated, are vast in extent. Waste of manure is either so common as to breed indifference or so silent and hidden as to escape notice.

It has been figured out that if one-third of the manure in the United States is wasted the total annual loss would be about $708,400,000 annually.

If the farmer, instead of selling off his crops, feeds them to live stock on the farm as far as possible, a large proportion of this fertility is retained on the farm, and if the business of stock feeding is carried to the point where feed is purchased in addition to that grown on the farm a considerable addition may in this way be made to the fertility of the farm at an almost nominal cost, since it is assumed that feed will not be bought unless its feeding value will at least pay its cost.

The growing of more leguminous plants such as beans, peas, clover, lupines, etc., as a means of increasing the fertility of the soil is strongly recommended both from theoretical and practical considerations, but the leguminous crop is best utilized when it is fed out on the farm and the manure saved and applied to the soil. The greatest profit is thus secured and nearly the same fertility is maintained as in green manuring. The farmer should amend his system so that the barnyard manure will be as well cured for as any other farm product. Loss from surface washing, leaching, fermentation and decay should be guarded against. Then the feeding of richer food will mean richer manure and better and cheaper crops.

It is hard to persuade the farmer to abandon time honored practices and adopt methods with which he is unfamiliar. He also hesitates about incurring the necessary expense of building suitable receptacles for the storage of manure, frequently assuming that this is greater than it really is. As Roberts states, "The new idea that the manure should be as carefully preserved from unnecessary waste as any other product of the farm is hard to put in practice after having for forty years stored the farmyard manure under the eaves upon the steep hillside which forms one border of the running brook."

It is to be feared that the introduction of commercial fertilizers has not been without effect in increasing the apparent indifference with which this valuable farm resource is so often regarded. Too many farmers lose sight of the fact that, as a rule, commercial fertilizers should supplement and not entirely replace the manual supplies of the farm, says W. H. Beal.

"Spot Disease" of Alfalfa.

The so called "spot disease" of alfalfa, which is not uncommon in the western states, especially during wet seasons, became somewhat prevalent in Illinois in 1903. When the effect of this disease becomes marked, the leaves turn yellow and growth is retarded. If this occurs the alfalfa should be clipped. This is the only effective remedy known to be practicable. Seeding alfalfa with a light nurse crop is gaining favor in Illinois.—C. G. Hopkins.

An Onion That Is Gaining Favor.

The Australian brown onion, as shown in the cut, was grown from seed raised by the Oregon experiment station. It is a variety that is becoming well known, being of medium size and even in shape, flavor somewhat strong, maturing early, a long keeping variety and very firm in texture. It is highly recommended.

These onions were sown in boxes. Date of sowing, Jan. 22; date of planting, March 21; date of harvesting, Aug. 24; yield per acre, 618 bushels.

News and Notes.

Profit in poultry as a side issue is illustrated by the statement that the bulk of the eggs, 75 per cent of the whole amount, comes from small flocks owned by wage earners.

Comparatively few of those who pay daily visits to the grocer and the market man realize that 12,000,000 farmers are engaged in supplying the other 70,000,000 people of the United States with food.

Roberts suggests $250 as a conservative estimate of the value of the manure produced during seven winter months on a small farm carrying four horses, twenty cows, fifty sheep and ten hogs.

Judge E. B. Holden at Racine on Tuesday granted a divorce to Mrs. Mattie J. Spalding, on the ground of cruelty. The parties have been residents of Kenosha for the last four years and leaders in society.

the way of athletes, and many people believe that he will win the all around championship of the United States at the St. Louis exposition.

John J. Daly is another famous Irishman. He may visit this country in the fall.

Daly, hailing from Downra, County Galway, is perhaps the best cross country runner Ireland has ever produced. He first attracted attention in 1891. Since then he has acquired a reputation by leaps and bounds, as his records show. His maiden efforts in athletics were in the broad jump, but he soon discovered his abilities as a runner and confined all his attention to this branch of sports. He has not only beaten all the best runners in Ireland, but has held his own with England's best men. In an eight mile race in England he finished second to Schrub, Great Britain's most famous distance runner, and was only beaten a few yards. He has won in all four cross country championships of Ireland—the four miles that once, three miles once, two miles once, one mile twice, international mile and four miles once.

Kiely is the champion all around athlete of Great Britain and Ireland and the present holder of several English and Irish records. He came over to take part in the all around championship games at St. Louis July 4.

Kiely has a long record. He captured the Irish championship title every year the event was held, and it was finally abolished when no competitors were forthcoming to oppose the "Curick man." He is the holder of eighty championships and the creator of forty records and is the possessor of 1,500 prizes. His best record with the hammer is 151 feet 11 inches from the line foot center and he has thrown the fifty-six pound weight 38 feet 11 inches with one hand, which is the world's record.

John Flanagan, now a New York policeman, has been for several years one of the best known Irish athletes in America. He holds several hammer throwing and shot putting records. He will appear at St. Louis wearing the colors of the Greater New York Irish Athletic association, provided that he can obtain leave from his work.

Irish Champions.

Athletes Who Uphold the Glory of the Emerald Isle Here and at Home.

Irish athletes are performing sensational feats these days both here in America and in the "old country" as well. Thomas F. Kiely, the all around champion of Ireland, who is now in America, is a wonderful example of what the Emerald Isle can produce in

CHAPTER XXI.

THE MONASTERY OF THE LAMAS.

"SURELY," said Orskoff, peering in the darkness at the face of the American, "it is not your purpose to desert the girls."

"I should say not; but with our feet and hands tied and we helpless in this camp we could not assist them. It is this way; Doulton is now camping in the woods. His horses are on the cliff. According to what he said, there is a road farther up the pass by which he will take the camels to the mountains. If thatascal ever gets the girls into the Zannuck stronghold, nothing that we can do will avail. We've got to think of something to do now."

"But what? Is it to fight? I will fight to the last drop of blood!"

"No; fighting will not help us. We've got to win out by some trick."

"They sat down, and Orskoff leaned his head in his hands. Harvey became intent with his thoughts."

"Hello!" said Harvey, getting to his feet quickly. "Somebody around here! Hear that noise? Sounds like a wounded man calling for aid."

"Must be one of the Zannucks or one of the ameer's men who crawled here to get out of the way."

"I'm going to see who and what it is," said Harvey. "I can't see friend or enemy suffer when helpless."

They soon discovered a man, wounded by spear and sword, lying near the side of the road.

"Art thou friends?" he whispered in the tongue of the ameer's people.

"We have reason to be enemies, but we have no wish to harm you. Is there anything we can do?"

"Canst thou bring water?"

"I could if I knew where there was any," said Harvey. "Do you know of a river or spring near by?"

"Nay, there is none nearer than the Batoula temple."

"And what is this Batoula temple?"

"A place for lamas—priests of the monastery. There are many there. They are hospitable. If I could get there, they would know how to deal with my wounds."

"How far is it?"

"It is not far. It stands on the highway, but is surrounded by high walls."

"How came you here?"

"I was with the ameer's men when we were attacked by the Zannucks. I was wounded and crawled away from the pass, for the Zannucks kill all their wounded enemies. I could go no further."

"You came to a good place. The Zannucks are almost within reach of our voices. But tell me more about that Batoula temple."

"As I said, it is a lama monastery. There are monks of all kinds there—missionary monks, begging monks, praying monks."

"Are they all natives of Bokhara?"

"Not all. They come of many nations. Could I be carried there?" asked the wounded soldier.

"We have work to do here," broke in Orskoff. "We cannot give you the time."

"You spoke of begging monks," said Harvey. "What do they beg? How do they reach people?"

"They walk along the roads and ask alms of all they meet. It is in this way the monasteries are supported."

"What do they wear? What sort of looking?"

"You interested in monks?" interrupted Orskoff impatiently. "We have no time to think of them."

"I am thinking of them very hard just now."

Again addressing the wounded man, Harvey asked:

"What sort of garb do these monks wear?"

either and formed what he called a Russian field chair. The wounded man was then picked up, and the three started off.

"Tell me more about these monks," said Harvey as they went along.

"They are priests of the religion of Buddha-Sakymuni. They are good and holy men."

"Have I not heard somewhere that they are supposed to be gifted with the power to foretell the future—a sort of second sight?"

"Yes, they have magic sight."

"Are the Zannucks believers in these monks?"

"Yes, all of them."

"How shall we know when we reach this monastery?"

"There is a light at the pool. If I can be bathed in the sacred pool of Batoula, I shall be cured."

"What pool is that?"

"The life giving pool of Batoula. It is just within the first gate. One who bathes in it is made holy and is given much power by the Dalai lama."

"Watch for the light. But the dawn is breaking; we shall soon be able to see for ourselves."

An hour later they saw the stone walls of the lama monastery.

"The first gate is there," said the Bokharan, who proved to be a young, handsome fellow and seemed inclined to be friendly.

"How do we call them?" asked Harvey as they reached the iron gate.

"There is a rope. Pull it, and a bell will ring."

Harvey pulled a rope that dangled from above, and inside a bell tolled twice. Immediately the wicket of the gate was opened.

"Who thus disturbs the peace of this holy city?" asked a voice.

The hooded face of a monk peered out at them.

"A wounded soldier of the ameer who seeks thy help," answered the young Bokharan.

"Enter."

The gate was opened, and the monk walked away, leaving the three at the edge of a large pool. Soon other monks in their peculiar garb, wearing hoods that hid their faces, came toward them, and the wounded soldier was laid up on a bed brought from the interior. Another wall could be seen, and inside of this was a large building.

"He shall be bathed in the pool by our brothers," said one of the priests. "The living waters of Batoula will surely heal his wounds."

The gatekeeper went to lock the gate. "Nay, good father," said Harvey; "do not lock the gate. When we learn of the effect of the bathing on our friend, we will proceed upon our way."

An aged priest was coming toward them, followed by several others. The face of the old priest was kindly, and as he examined the wounded man Harvey watched him closely.

"He's my man," he said.

The old lama gave several orders, which his inferiors put into execution, and then turned away. Harvey intercepted him.

"Holy one," he said as he walked by the old priest's side, "may one who knows but little of thy race and religion ask a boon?"

"All men may come to us and learn."

"It is not to learn, for there is not time. I wish to do that which perhaps is not according to your laws. Not far from here are wicked men, hundreds of them, who have stolen two young women and will perhaps harm them if we cannot rescue them. Two of us against so many are powerless, but we could do something by strategy if we wore the garb of your order. I have gold, and here—here is a watch from faroff America, here is a diamond ring from Paris; these will I give to enrich thy temple for the use of two such outlaws of clothing as thy people wear."

The old priest looked at him curiously.

"This request never has been made before. I do not understand. Wouldst thou seek to harm us by a wrongful act?"

"Is it wrongful to rescue young women from robbers?"

"Nay, but the robe of a holy man must not be soiled with blood."

"I promise that no stain of crime shall rest upon it. If blood there is, it shall be our own."

The gleaming diamond attracted the old priest. He listened to the ticking of the watch.

"They are wonderful and beautiful. And wouldst thou give both for the use of two of these gurls?"

"Yes, gladly."

"Come with me."

Harvey motioned to Orskoff, who followed him.

"What are you after now?" he asked.

"You and I are to become monks—old and feeble monks."

GOLDEN RULE JONES HAS PASSED AWAY

Toledo, July 13.—Samuel Milton Jones, the "Golden Rule" mayor of this city, died at 5:07 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, after an illness that had confined him to his bed for twenty days. The direct cause of death was the breaking of an abscess on the lung, scattering through his system a poison that he had not sufficient strength to overcome.

Never before in Toledo have anxiety and grief been so universal as during the last illness of the mayor. In practically every house of worship in the city prayers have been offered for his recovery.

The body of Mayor Jones will lie in state at Memorial hall Thursday. The funeral services, which will be open to all, will be held on the lawn at the residence Friday.

"Golden Rule" His Law.
Mr. Jones, who was familiarly known as "Golden Rule" Jones because of his insistence that the precept, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you do ye even so unto them," furnishes the only right and satisfactory basis for all human relations, was born of very poor parents in Wales, Aug. 3, 1846. With his parents he came to the United States three years later. The family settled in Lewis county, New York, and poverty soon drove little Samuel to work. Through years of hardship and unremitting toil he developed the germ of that intense sympathy with the poor and the keen desire to better social conditions that made him famous in mature life.

Goes to Oil Fields.
At the age of 18 he went to the oil fields with 15 cents in his pocket and amassed a considerable fortune. In 1894 he entered the manufacturing business in Toledo, found men begging for work at a fraction of a dollar a day, and from this condition arose his "golden rule" theory.

Out of his vnder and his study grew his espousal of collectivism as a relief from the evils and injustice of the corrective system. A Christian from youth, he found in the teachings of Christ a command that made him seek to better his factory employees' conditions at once by giving them larger wages and a share of the profits of his business and by establishing free public pleasure grounds near the factory. In the factory he posted the golden rule, a substitute for the usual drastic regulations made by employers, and he treated his workmen as social equals.

Career in Politics.
In 1897 Mr. Jones entered politics as a delegate to the Republican city convention. To break a deadlock he was nominated for mayor, and made his canvass a picturesque one by preaching golden rule politics. He was elected and immediately began to push municipal reforms. His radical course made so many enemies among the politicians that when his term of office was up the Republicans refused to renominate him. Then he became an independent candidate on a municipal ownership and general reform platform and was re-elected by a very large majority.

In 1899 Mr. Jones became an independent candidate for governor of Ohio. He was defeated, and in 1903 was nominated again for mayor by petition, the Democratic party leaving the place of mayor blank in its ticket in favor of Mr. Jones. He was elected for a third term by a handsome majority. In 1903 he again was nominated by petition, and with both a Republican and a Democratic candidate against him, was re-elected. His term would have expired in 1906.

THERMOMETERS IN EVERY-DAY LIFE

They Are of Great Interest to the Usual Wandering Public as to Weather.

Few things give as much genuine enjoyment to city people as thermometers. Parks, band concerts, drinking fountains and all that are good, but no deeper satisfaction can be imagined than that which a plentiful, adequate supply of thermometers scattered about in public places, gives to the busy population of a city. More people will stop in front of a thermometer than at a drinking fountain. On certain days they will gather in clusters, they will confer with each other, and will compare thermometers with each other. No one can fathom the humor, the real, downright fun that hurrying humanity gets out of these comparisons. No two thermometers ever register the same degree of temperature, and the flow of mild pessimism thus generated is a good thing. It is prevented from exercising itself in more destructive courses. A man who scolds about the thermometer will spare more serious subjects. Every drug-store, every hotel, every cigar and barber shop, should have its thermometer hung exposed to the free air of heaven. It gives them something to think about and to talk about. It makes a life a little more worth living. It stands next to bulletins in the windows of newspaper offices in public interest. This very uncertainty and variety of temperature is delightful. When we know how cold or how hot it is in front of the Hayes block, then we are anxious to know just where the mercury stands at the Myers hotel. No one wants thermometers any more than street clocks reduced to one monotonous level, all registering the same figures. If this were so, when you've seen one, you're done. We like variety in thermometers. They have as much right to different opinions as men. We soon learn to know which are the conservative thermometers and which are the flighty, up-in-the-air fellows; and we like each in his way. When we wish to be quiet and serene, we patronize the calm, placid ones that never registers above 85 or below zero; but when we want to go about exciting and alarming people we quote from the thermometer that always marks 107 above without provocation and and 21 below when all the others say it is but 13. There is nothing so pleasurable as having a wide circle of acquaintances among thermometers.

APPLE SCAB.

The Worst Disease of the Apple. Thrives in Damp Early Summer. By D. O. LONGYEAR, Michigan Experiment Station.

The disease of the apple commonly known as "scab" or in some cases as "black spot" is probably familiar to every grower of this fruit. It first appears in spring on the young foliage, producing velvety, olive colored patches. This form is sometimes known as "mildew" or "leaf blight." In severe cases the leaves become shriveled and discolored, eventually falling off. The fungus also attacks the stems of the young apples at blossoming time, especially if the weather at this time is unusually cool and moist. This causes the young fruit to shrivel and drop off, often greatly reducing the crop of mature fruit.

The most characteristic effects of this fungous parasite, however, are found on the fruit itself. Here the spots at first appear much like those on the leaves, but as the fruit develops the fungus works under the cuticle, or outer layer of the skin, causing it to scale off. These spots on mature apples have a dark brown or blackish color, with a narrow border of a light gray color. The spots are usually most numerous around the blossom end of the fruit. On badly affected fruit the spots run together, sometimes covering one-third of the surface. Deep cracks often occur in such cases, which allow the apple to dry out.

Apple scab is without doubt the worst disease affecting this fruit. This is due not alone to its destruction of the foliage and young apples or to the unsightly spots which it causes on the mature fruit. In addition to all this, it opens a way for the entrance of numerous rot producing fungi into the tissues of the mature apple. Thus during the seasons of 1902 and 1903, which were characterized in this state by an unusual rainfall, great quantities of apples were lost soon after packing and in storage and even during shipment through the agency of these soft rots following apple scab. In some cases apples affected with scab began rotting while still attached to the trees, the loss amounting to four-fifths of the entire crop.

The fungus of apple scab thrives during moist, cool weather, especially during the early part of summer. Fruit grown on closely crowded trees where air and light are shut out appears to be more severely affected than where the opposite conditions prevail. Therefore a location securing good ventilation, proper spacing of trees and systematic pruning are to be considered as preventive measures in the case of this disease. It has been found that the fungus passes the winter on the fallen leaves, appearing as minute black bodies buried in the leaf tissues. From these are given off, in the following spring, the first crop of spores which attack the lower leaves, the disease later spreading to all parts of the tree. Thus another preventive measure is suggested and recommended—viz, the destroying of these dead leaves, which serve as agents of infection. This may be done either by raking and burning them or by plowing them under in the spring before the spores are shed.

The planting of varieties which are naturally less subject to the scab is also to be considered as a preventive measure. Spraying for the prevention and treatment of this disease has proved of unquestioned value and a paying investment to the apple grower. The first application made before the buds open may be copper sulphate solution, which is cheaper and easier to prepare and use than bordeaux mixture. By many growers this application is considered the most important one for fungous diseases and should not be neglected. After the leaves appear it will be necessary to use bordeaux mixture, the first application of this spray to be used just before blossoming. This is the most important treatment of the season. The second after the blossoms fall and two or three other applications at intervals of ten days to two weeks will prove beneficial, especially if the season is a wet one. The final spray may consist of a weak solution of copper sulphate to avoid staining the fruit.

CONFESSIONS OF DODD GASTON.

I notice that Tom King has signed up a contract with another new vest. I have noticed that it isn't always the country dance that breaks up in a row.

All you have to do to avoid the male quartet from now on is to stay away from the Chautauques.

In my judgment there are still too many men who think a pair of shoestrings equivalent to a shine.

Being poor and obscure has its advantages. Nobody would ever think of giving me a gold-headed cane.

I gather from casual glances at the shop windows that the summer underwear has assembled for rehearsal.

I have noticed that the color and pattern of the paper on the wall seldom makes much difference to a man.

I am curious to know whether the deal to bring white flannel trousers to Topeka this summer has been closed.

Not caring to have it generally known that I am profane upon occasions, I can not give my opinion of the circus callopes.

It is my observation that it is usually the fat woman who writes the poetry and her spirituelle sister who excels in cooking beans.

I gather from the fashion notes that about the usual number of young men will pretend this summer that they are making a belt do the work of a pair of suspenders.

I am free to confess that I didn't see much of the circus parade yesterday morning. Three Atchison girls were giving a procession at the same time, and I greatly prefer Atchison girls to a circus.—Topeka Capital.

It is our follies that tell and for which we must pay the penalty and make amends.

Knowing this great, grand and glorious fact, that it is only our own roles that we need to look after, let us proceed to notice that just as virtue is its own reward so the want of virtue is its own punishment.

It is the person that does the evil that is damaged.

It is the person that passes the scandal that is the worse for it.

It is the one that performs the rude acts that is tainted.
